easyJet's winter schedule to return for sixth year at Leeds Bradford Airport

Friday 21st October: The winter ski season will see easyJet return to Leeds Bradford Airport for a sixth year, with four weekly flights to Geneva.

The popular ski route from LBA with easyJet will run from December 10th until April 13th, offering quick and convenient access to the Alps for ski and snowboard lovers.

More than 20,000 seats will be available throughout the schedule at Leeds Bradford Airport, with prices starting at just £32.99.

Tony Hallwood, Aviation Development Director at Leeds Bradford Airport, said: "With the winter season upon us now, it's fantastic to confirm the return of easyJet at LBA. Geneva is an incredibly popular leisure route through the winter season, as it's ideally placed for ski and snowboard holiday breaks in Europe at good prices.

"As the international airport for the Leeds City Region, we are focused upon offering the very best schedules for all of our passengers to enjoy convenient access to Europe and beyond. We look forward to welcoming easyJet back at LBA for the winter season and offering their customers fantastic levels of service."

Ali Gayward, easyJet's UK Commercial Manager, commented: "Each winter our flights from Leeds Bradford to Geneva prove ever more popular with skiers and snowboarders and we expect this coming winter to be no exception.

"easyJet flies more than three times more frequently to and from Europe's ski destinations than any other UK airline and Geneva is our largest gateway. We carry 190,000 passengers to Geneva every week throughout the season and on any given Saturday in January, we have up to 88 flights and carry over 12,000 customers throughout the day into Geneva alone."

Flights can be booked at www.easyjet.com. For more information about Leeds Bradford Airport, visit www.leedsbradfordairport.co.uk.
